A Sightline on Safety

When City Council decided 10 years ago the people of Winnipeg deserved a committee dedicated to addressing city-wide safety concerns, no one involved imagined the progress we could make in a decade.

But progress, as a matter of fact, now seems to be an understatement.

Since 1999, the Winnipeg Committee for Safety (WCFS) has involved and engaged community members, businesses and representatives from many prominent groups including Winnipeg Police Service, Winnipeg Regional Health Authority and Safe Communities Canada on our quest towards making the city a safer place to live. We set and realized many goals; most notably a 2008 Safe Communities designation that we feel marks ultimate success – national recognition that Winnipeg has its sights set on safety for all.

Together, our committee and Winnipeg as a community have worked hard and accomplished results. Together, we are becoming a safer city.

Message from the Chairperson

Councillor Harvey Smith

The World Health Organization defines safety as a state in which hazards and conditions leading to physical, psychological or material harm are controlled in order to preserve the health and well-being of individuals and the community. This is the state the Winnipeg Committee for Safety (WCFS) has strived for since its 1999 inception.

Acting on principles of evolution, growth and achievement, we made 2008 a banner year – a year in which we took leaps and bounds towards our ultimate goal of a safer city for all

Winnipeggers and Safe Communities Canada designation.

Over the last 12 months, we worked harder than ever before, setting priorities and taking steps to ensure we achieved results. And though we cannot yet call Winnipeg a city entirely free of all hazards and hurt, we made significant progress and are proud to see our city becoming a less harmful place for all its citizens.

At the start of 2008, we once again made achieving Safe Community designation a priority, and finally realized our goal. Together, the committee and local leaders held the Safe Communities Canada national conference in November and welcomed representatives from every single designated Safe Community in Canada, as well as some from the United States and Australia – all of whom witnessed our commitment and dedication to making our city safer.

Perhaps most notably, members of the World Health Organization also took note of our determination and accomplishments and attended the conference as recognition for our efforts. While here, the WHO held a training session in conjunction with the Safe Communities activities, marking the first time such a seminar was held in North America – and also marking Winnipeg as a truly innovative city in the realm of safety.

We are a city which – to the best of our power – controls the hazards and conditions that lead to physical, psychological and material harm. We work together to preserve the health and well-being of our communities. We boost and rely upon community programming and outreach, and we do it together in the name of safety.

And that, truly, is something to celebrate.

“Destination, Designation:” Safe Communities Canada takes notice

November 2008 was a momentous time for the Winnipeg Committee for Safety – we achieved the Safe Communities Canada designation.

In the months since we received our Safe Communities status, we have been forced to think about what the designation actually means to us. On the surface, it means we achieved the very thing we set out to accomplish – a city dedicated to making its people safer and healthier. Beneath the surface, it means so much more.

Designation as a Safe Community places Winnipeg among world leaders in safety promotion and aligns us with 53 other communities in Canada dedicated to reducing the rate of personal injuries and promoting a culture of safety from coast to coast.

Being recognized as a leader in safety promotion, education and outreach brings a certain level of responsibility and Winnipeg now has a reputation to uphold and embrace. As a city, we will continue to make our communities safer and more prosperous for all. We believe our stakeholders and partners will keep working together to impact the safety, health and well-being of our children, coworkers, friends and neighbours.

Safety, after all, is a cornerstone of what makes our city a home and we are taking strides to achieve it.

Leaders in your Community
